Membership Application Form

EIP members are companies and institutes. This means that once your company is a member, your company has a representative in the general assembly, and can send people to the working groups. The person active in the working group is not necessarily the same person as in the general assembly, allowing to select to most interested/suited person(s) in your company to participate in the discussions and paper writing.

A one time entrance fee of 5,500 € is payable to join EIP.

The yearly renewal membership fee is currently 1,000 € per company, giving your company full access to the different working groups and general assembly meetings. Moreover, all company employees benefit from a reduced rate for participation to our yearly symposium and one representative of the member company gets free access to the yearly conference.

Membership is submitted to Board approval and also requires US-based companies to have immunogenicity laboratory facilities in Europe.
